

Chase's Chance, Inc.
Serving others with heart™

WHO WE ARE

Chase's Chance is a 501(c)3 non-profit located in the Piedmont Triad community. We strive to provide basic needs for local and international youth so that they feel empowered to meet their goals.

Chase A. Clark founded this non-profit in 2013 in High Point, North Carolina. Through community service projects, Chase's Chance partners with other organizations in the community to make an impact on children's lives. To date, the organization has raised and donated over $300,000.

ABOUT CHASE CLARK

Chase A. Clark is a dynamic young leader who believes in the power of community and services. She puts this belief into practice through her 501(c)3 non-profit organization, Chase's Chance, Inc., founded to bridge the gap for youth internationally and locally.

As a self-proclaimed lifelong learner, Chase believes that education is central to a person's development.

Chase is a college student attending Wake Forest University (WFU). She is very active on campus, serving as a:

- Resident Advisor
- Volunteer Campus Tour Guide
- Wake Forest TedXUniversity Marketing and Event Coordinator
- Black Student Alliance Board Secretary

She also works with the admissions office at WFU as a Deacon Delegate.

In 2021, Chase founded The Renaissance Project: A Black Girl's Movement podcast, and more recently, produces the Chase at Wake podcast. Both platforms commit to encouraging liberation, inspiration, and creativity to reimagine community conversations and those who have them.
